Unincorp. Offers Firetruck, 3 Men For City Deal

A special city council meeting has been called for tomorrow night (Friday, March 15) at 7:30 o'clock to hear proposals of the Carmel Unincorporated Fire Protection District for a mutual fire protection arrangement between the city and the unincorporated district.

The unincorporated district will offer to purchase a $21,000 fire truck, hose and miscellaneous equipment, and undertake to pay the salaries of three firemen, the equipment to be housed in the Carmel Firehouse, it and the three hired firemen to be at the disposal of the city. In return, the city would undertake to fight fires in the unincorporated areas.

"We would buy a bigger truck than we need for our fires, but which would raise Carmel's standard with the underwriters, and Carmel would have three additional paid firemen," points out Edward K. Neroda, one of the three commissioners of the unincorporated fire protection district.

Sixteen of Carmel's 35 volunteer firemen live outside of the city limits, and the attitude of the volunteers who live in the city is: "They've been fighting our fires for years; we'd be willing to fight theirs." At a recent meeting of the Carmel Fire Department, the volunteers were unanimous in their approval of the proposal, so far as concerns their part in it.

The unincorporated district will hold an election on March 26, 7:00 to 7:00 o'clock at the Carmel High School to determine if the property owners of the district are willing to tax themselves to support the fire protection district. If the proposal passes—a majority vote carries the election—the fire commissioners set up a budget which will have legal publication and hearings. A 40 cents tax rate "is being talked about," according to Mr. Neroda, to cover the cost of equipment and salaries which would be the unincorporated district's contribution to the Carmel Fire Department if the City of Carmel decides to enter into the mutual agreement, and if the unincorporated district tax election passes.

It is probable that Friday night the city council will delegate City Clerk Larry Rose to make a fire protection cost study before they come to a decision.

Captain Archer Allen has called a meeting of Carmel Unincorporated for Tuesday night, 8:00 o'clock at the Carmel High School, to explain the March 27 tax election.

Enid Larson Written Up As The H. S. Teacher Who Won't Answer Questions

Carmel High School Science teacher Miss Enid Larson is the subject of an article in the March 15 issue of Together, a new family magazine of the Methodist Publishing House, Chicago, Illinois.

Teaching without a textbook, or homework, and with pupils supplying their own material, Miss Larson inspires "a well high incredible 23 per cent of her students, on the average, to go on to specialize in science of one kind or another with 15 per cent of this total sticking to the biological sciences—everything from forestry to marine biology to medicine," says Frances W. Rummell author of the article entitled, The Teacher Who Won't Answer Questions.

Miss Larson won't answer questions, according to the writer, because Carmel High's science teacher believes the way to learn is to find out for yourself. She does, however, provide a fine reference library and if the student cannot find the answer in any reference book, then Miss Larson will tell the pupil what she knows, and, if she knows nothing, have the student send his material to some other authority such as Hopkins Marine Station or the University of California.

The success of Miss Larson's teaching is shown by the fact that eight years ago when she came to teach here only one year of biology was offered and only 30 students out of 300 took the course. As interest grew in science, as taught by Enid Larson, says the article, a second year was added to the curriculum and finally a third year was given when students petitioned the board of trustees. Now Carmel High has "the only three-year sequence in biology" in the state.

Besides this Miss Larson's students, says Frances Rummell, have discovered species hitherto unknown to science and carried out a research project on spiders for the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. They have their own natural reservation back of the High School and a fine museum they have, provided for themselves. Miss Larson, through Science, has inspired non-readers to read because she won't answer questions but encourages students to learn by reading themselves, continues the author.

All this is in Frances Rummell's article in Together. However, here in Carmel last Saturday many of Miss Larson's pupils waited as long as two hours to see the anticipated tidal wave at the beach. One student expressed appreciation of Carmel High's Science teacher with, "Why isn't Miss Larson here? We'd all have so much fun!"

1000 Names Already On ABC Petitions; Another 1000 Wanted

Close to a 1000 citizens signed petitions this week to appeal the ABC findings in favor of the Hearstone liquor license transfer from Ocean Avenue to Sixth and Junipero, across the street from Devendorf Plaza.

The Carmel Protective Association, which is circulating the petitions, states Carmel's case in an advertisement on page three of this issue of the Pine Cone.

The Pine Cone is in agreement with these statements and urges your co-operation.

March 26 Set For Patterson Review Before Planners

Tuesday, the County Planning Commission postponed until March 26 consideration of Steve Patterson's application review for a restaurant and bar on the south side of Garrapata Creek, west of Highway One.

Ralph Thompson, attorney for Patterson, requested the delay, so that aerial maps of the area could be prepared for commission study.

Patterson's application for a restaurant-bar was denied previously by the County Planning Commission. He appealed the decision to the County Board of Supervisors who turned the matter back to the Planning Commission for further study.

Opposing the restaurant-bar commercial development on the ocean side of the scenic Coast Highway are members of the Carmel Highlands Association, the Audubon Society, various conservation groups and numerous county citizens.

The proposed new county Master Plan is also opposed to commercial development on the west side of the coast highway.

Fine Cast Reads Irish Classic; Group To Select Another Play For Reading Tonight; You Are Invited

The group play readings, which Herbert Heron has conducted for many years, started for 1957 most auspiciously last week end. A representative group gathered in the studio in the Seven Arts Court, and discussed plays, dates and times, deciding finally on Thursday as being the day in each week when there would be less conflict with other local activities. All meetings will be held in the Heron studio, and will begin at 8:00 o'clock sharp.

A long list of possible plays was considered, with the choice for each Thursday depending on what readers and how many, including listeners, attended on any particular night. Some plays have small casts, some large, and preparations will be made for whatever transpires.

For the opening night there was an exceptionally good group, including a large number of players who had worked in the Forest Theater and in other local theaters. Cathleen ni Houlihan was read by six veterans with smoothness and genuine feeling. This Irish classic is very short, but is a work of power in spite of its simplicity. Dr. Fred Farley, a deep student of the drama, took the part of the father; Eleanor White, who played in The Merchant of Venice some years ago with George Marion and Lloyd Weer, had the role of the mother; Gregory Stitt, who with his brother made such a hit with the audiences at Twelfth Night last summer, played the young son Patrick; Andrew White, who rehearsed as Sir Andrew Aguecheek only to be forced to give up the part, because of serious illness, took the role of the older brother Michael; Karen Williams Bryant, who has played leads in the First Theater, the Circle Theater and the Forest Theater, was Delia; and Blanche Tolmie, whose portrayal of Iphigenia will always be remembered, had the fine role of Cathleen ni Houlihan—the spirit of Ireland.

The next reading will be tonight, Thursday, at 8:00 o'clock, in Bert Heron's studio in the Seven Arts Court, on the corner of Lincoln and Ocean Avenue. All are welcome, whether they care to read or not.

Carmel Portraits . . .

BY DAISY BOSTICK

Blanche Tolmie was a Carmel resident when I came here to live in 1920. We have been friends ever since. And that's a long time for both of us. She can be proud of the distinction of being second to Herbert Heron in her long years of service to the Forest Theater.

Time has treated Blanche gently. Her body is still young and slim, her graceful and expressive hands still account for much of her charm.

Blanche's birthplace was Buffalo, New York. At an early age her voice developed into a dramatic soprano and gave promise of a singing career. Accordingly she went abroad and studied in Berlin and Vienna and she got acquainted with Sybil Thorndike, one of England's greatest actresses. Through Miss Thorndike, Blanche met the performers in the Ben Greet Shakespearian Company with which Miss Thorndike was associated.

After returning to New York, Blanche once more ran into the Ben Greet Company and by a strange twist of fate, which involved an understudy, she got the part of Ceres in The Tempest which was being staged in Carnegie Hall. She was with the company three seasons and played in various eastern cities. Thus she supplemented her musical training with experience in acting.

Blanche eventually found herself in San Francisco.

As usual I asked how it happened that she landed in Carmel. She replied: "I came down here on a vacation. Got acquainted with Mrs. Agnes Signor who owned and operated Hotel La Playa. She asked me to be hostess for the Inn and the offer intrigued me. Carmel was even then attracting interesting people. It was becoming one of the cultural centers of the coast. I was still studying music and felt that I would meet people with (Continued on Page Eleven).

PADRES OPEN BASEBALL SEASON FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Carmel High School's defending champion baseball team is slated to open the 1957 season Friday afternoon against the San Lorenzo Cougars at Carmel's Bardarson Field. With a week's spotty practice under their belts, little is known about the ability of this year's Padre aggregation. Only one returning letterman is back from last year's championship team, and the outlook is for an inexperienced team which will find the going rough in the CCAL B-division. Tim O'Shea, a substitute on the 1956 nine who did a fine job as a pinch-hitter, is the monogram winner around whom the 1957 team will be built. Tim is a pitching candidate this season and with lots of development in the control department could win a few for the Padres. Other pitching candidates are Parker Pollock, a junior-varsity and Legion hurler last season, who has the size and speed to develop into a good one. Cim Conway, a sophomore hurling prospect who showed good form in the junior league last summer, will give varsity ball a whirl this year. Cim has a good sneaky fast ball and possesses better control than either O'Shea or Pollock. Carmel is well fixed at the catching spot with stocky Joe Mason handling the tools of ignorance. Joe has played two years of junior-varsity ball, saw limited action with the varsity last year, and did some catching in the Legion league. Trying out for the infield spots are Andy Gray, Dennis Peavey, Walter Helm, Charley Dawson, and Mike Gahagan. Gray, Helm, and Gahagan have played some junior-varsity and Legion ball, while Dawson and Peavey are new to the game. An outfield trio up from the junior-varsity gives the Padres good fly-chasing coverage. Neil Giarratana, a center fielder with two year's junior-varsity experience, can cover ground well but is weak with the stick. Mal Burdis, has good speed and a fair arm but also needs lots of work in the batting department. Dale Dawson showed flashes of power as a junior-varsity player last season and could be Carmel's best hitting outfielder.

Junior-varsity practice will start next Monday, with about 30 candidates working out under the watchful eye of Dan Yurkovich.

CARMEL LITTLE LEAGUE

The first try-out for the Carmel Little League will be held on Saturday, March 23 at the Carmel High School ball field.

All boys of ages 8 to 12 who desire to try out will report there at 9:00 a.m. They must furnish their own glove or mitt. (Catchers excepted).

Any boy who is or will be 8 years of age on or before July 31 is considered to be the league age of 8 and may try out. Any boy who is or will be 13 years of age on or before July 31 is over the league age and does not qualify.

Copies of birth certificates or birth registration are necessary and boys of league age may get a photostat of same free of charge at the Camera Craft Shop on Ocean Avenue.

Time and place for future try outs will be announced at a later date.

FREMONT HIGH WINS CARMEL HOOP TOURNNEY

A truly great Fremont High School basketball team put on a terrific show in the 10th Annual Carmel Invitational Tourney to easily win the championship and retire the Peter Ferrante Perpetual Trophy as three-time winner's of the Carmel event. Paced by the clever Bub Bowling, the tourney's most valuable player for the second straight year, the Indians ground three opponents into defeat on their way to the title. On Thursday night, Fremont clipped the host Padres after the surprising Carmel lads had played them dead even for the entire first half. Friday night, the Indians gave the shock treatment to the dangerous San Ramon squad which was picked by many fans to beat Coach Snyder's champs. In Saturday night's final game, Fremont put on an amazing display of team basketball to whip the hard-trying Pacific Grove Breakers, 53 to 29.

A fired-up Carmel High squad upset Gustine, 59 to 48, to win the Consolation trophy. Carmel lost to Fremont in the first game, came back to beat Gonzales in Friday's second round, and turned back the classy Gustine Indians in Saturday's consolation finals. Good shooting performances by Clyde Klaumann, Charley Dawson, and Fred Bruggeman led the Padres in their two tournament victories. The well-conditioned Carmel lads employed a full-court press in all three games and were going strong at the finish.

San Ramon, led by Billy McMillen, a black-haired human dynamo, beat Gilroy in the third-place game, 52 to 40, as the clever McMillen pumped through 28 points to break the tourney record for points by a single player. The San Ramon flash had 76 points for the three games to shatter Joe Cozby's previous high of 56. McMillen proved to be a complete basketball player with terrific shots, strong rebounding, and amazing dribbling skill. Gilroy's all league guard, Dick Smith, hit for 22 points against the Wolves but it wasn't enough to counter the prolific scoring of McMillen.

A Fremont-dominated All-Tournament team was selected after the final game on Saturday night. The Champs placed Captain Bud Mathiesen, a 6-6 center who was Fremont's leading scorer and a top rebounder, Phil Kelly, an all-around good hoopster, and the fabulous Bub Bowling, a little guy in with the giants. San Ramon's Billy McMillen was another unanimous choice for all-tourney honors having established new scoring records in the three games played by the Wolves. Dayton House of Pacific Grove won the fifth spot on the all-tourney squad. House was a strong factor in the Breakers fight to reach the finals, playing an outstanding game around the boards. Pushing House for the fifth place were Junipero's Andy Nottenkamper, Gustine's David Salles, Gilroy's Julian Aguilar, San Ramon's John Longaker, and Carmel's Clyde Klaumann.

COACHES AND SPORTSWRITERS MEET AT SALINAS TONIGHT

Coast Counties Athletic League coaches and sportswriters will hold their annual pre-season baseball conflag at Salinas tonight to hash over prospects in both the A and B divisions.

In the A-division of the CCAL it looks to be a big year for the Monterey Toreadors who have the top pitcher in the circuit and are loaded with experienced personnel. Salinas figures to provide Coach Danny Albert's Toreadores with the most competition.

Gilroy, Pacific Grove, and Hollister appear to hold the best hands in the B-division with Live Oak a surprise team which could sneak in and knock off the big three. Gilroy has all-league pitcher, Julian Aguilar, back for another season and this lad was practically unbeatable last year. Live Oak's veteran baseball coach, Marty Mullins, is high on his left-handed pitcher, Jim Hall, who was a brilliant pitcher last season. Coach Buddy Guiterrez, who was building last season, has an all-veteran aggregation this year and the Spartans could be rough. The King City and Carmel squads were wiped out by graduation and the Padres and Mustangs will have to go with a building program.

TED KROLL, WORLD GOLF CHAMP TO PLAY EXHIBITION AT PEBBLE BEACH

Three local professionals, Henry Puget, Cam Puget, and Ray Parga will play with World Champion Ted Kroll in a free 18 hole exhibition match March 21 at Pebble Beach at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Kroll, winner on August 12 of the World Championship at Tam O'Shanter Country Club in Chicago, appears here through arrangements with the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce, under the auspices of the George S. May Company.

To Kroll's $50,000 first prize for winning the tournament, May has added an annual salary of $50,000 for playing exhibition matches throughout the country.

Thursday by a score of 13½-1½ in the first golf match of the season.

The match found both teams lacking in practice because of the rainy conditions prevailing over their home areas.

High man for the match was Dick Rose, of SFCC, who turned in a low card of 74 for the day.

SERVICE - SERVICE - SERVICE!

Here's another ACTUAL CASE HISTORY* to show you why CLYDE N. YOUNG offers you the finest service on the Peninsula.

Dr. C is a busy professional man, who insists that both HIS Dodge and his wife's Plymouth stay in good reliable running condition, ready for immediate use in an emergency.

Dr. C drives a lot, between his home, office and the local hospitals. His cars must be kept well-serviced so that they are easy to drive. He can't leave either car for 2-3 days for service, so we work with him with regular appointments, and as he says, "I keep coming back to Clyde N. Young because when you say my car will be ready at a certain time, I can count on it being ready on time."

Dr. C gives us complete responsibility for his cars... he admits that he knows very little about automobiles and doesn't attempt to "diagnose service troubles himself"... rather, as a professional man, he prefers to let professionals in the service business take charge of his cars. He finds that this kind of care more than pays for itself in the long run.

Why don't you drop in or call Bob Vallon, our service manager, and he'll be glad to discuss your service problems with you.

CRISIS IN CARMEL

Those of us who love Carmel for its unique way of life and its matchless traditions, which have existed for more than 50 years, today face a crisis unequalled in village history. And, unless we act now, the whole nature and character of this distinctive and beautiful village will come to a sad end. The traditions of half a century will have been shattered and Carmel will be on the road to honky-tonk.

A FLAGRANT VIOLATION

This crisis has arisen out of the applications of two retail liquor outlets to transfer their operations outside the legally-restricted zone into the fringes of the residential area, in direct and flagrant violation of the spirit and the letter of a city ordinance designed to help us preserve our uniqueness.

This crisis has been nourished by the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control which has chosen to disregard the letter of our law and the wishes of our people by summary approval of both these liquor license transfers.

The cases, specifically, are these:

The Pink Elephant is an out-of-town liquor store which seeks to establish itself at the corner of 6th and Torres streets, on the very edge of the residential district. The Hearthstone bar and restaurant would move from its present location on Ocean Avenue, within the legal zone for such a business, to the corner of 6th and Junipero, directly across the street from our city park (Devendorf Plaza) where children play.

The State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control has APPROVED both these transfers. It has declared our city ordinance is not valid, and it has dismissed the protests of hundreds of Carmel residents as though they did not exist.

DICTATORIAL POWERS

A state agency from Sacramento has come down and has told you what kind of community you will have. In deciding that our ordinance is not valid, it has also brazenly usurped powers that belong only to a court of law.

The State ABC could have denied both these transfers but it chose not to do so. It has specific authority to deny such transfer if the premises in question are located near a church, school, or children's public playground. Both these establishments would be located less than a block from a church AND a playground.

The State ABC ruled instead "it saw no reason to believe" this fact made any difference, despite protests from the church and ample evidence that Devendorf Park was constantly occupied by children at play.

The State ABC has already received many, many individual protests from Carmel citizens in this matter, yet it failed to recognize any of them in its arbitrary decision AGAINST the village of Carmel and its residents.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN

City Ordinance 122 N. S. provides that liquor may be sold only in the downtown area between 6th and 7th streets, and Mission and Monte Verde, unless liquor sales are in conjunction with another business and subordinate to it, such as a grocery, restaurant or drug store.

The argument has been advanced that the Hearthstone, which is also a restaurant, would not violate our city ordinance (No. 122 N. S.) because its liquor sales would be subordinate to that of the restaurant.

We believe the ordinance to be inadequate in this respect because there is no assurance that the bar would remain the subordinate portion of the business. The Hearthstone could be sold to other operators. It could also, under constitutional amendment approved by the voters at the last election, discontinue its restaurant altogether and become purely a saloon.

If this happened, Carmel would be powerless to do anything about it.

POLICE PROBLEM

By restricting the area where liquor stores and bars may operate, our city endeavors to protect the people from the problems which liquor is bound to present.

With our narrow, steep and winding streets, and our lack of sidewalks and street lights, multiplication of saloons, bars and liquor stores would add seriously to our police problem.

THE CARMEL TRADITION

What about these Carmel traditions? Here is what the preamble to the city zoning law says:

"Carmel is hereby determined to be primarily, essentially and predominantly a residential city wherein business and commerce have in the past, are now and are proposed to be in the future, subordinate to its residential character; that said determination is made having in mind the history and development of the cities of Pacific Grove, and Monterey, and the businesses, industries, trades, callings and professions in existence and permissible there . . ."

The Carmel Planning Commission reaffirms these principles and restates them as being as true today as when originally drafted 20 years ago. It believes that the philosophy expresses what has come to be known as the Carmel tradition, a tradition from which there should be no departure.

It has been established through the years that Carmel is made up of people who do not demand nor want the formal improvements which are so often considered to be the test of a progressive city. The people of Carmel do not desire the kind of progress that would disturb or alter the atmosphere or charm of Carmel.

INVADE AND DESTROY

Encroachment and intrusion in the residential areas by an increase in liquor outlets will destroy the very nature and character of this beautiful village which its citizens are determined to preserve.

Once the barriers were down, the door would be open to liquor establishments all around the residential area. The challenge we face is one of law and order, beauty and tranquility, tradition and custom. Our local laws are being jeopardized by a state agency which holds itself above them and does not share our regard for the traditional beauty of this unusual village.

HOW MANY BARS?

There is no doubt we face a crisis. There are already 23 licensed liquor outlets in Carmel, an astonishing number to serve such a small community. And they are confined to the main business district.

Contrast this situation with one in which there were no such restrictions, our laws held invalid and the tremendous profit in liquor luring more and more traffic into it. The State ABC department is willing to grant a license to almost anybody.

What then is to prevent Carmel from becoming a crude replica of so many other cities with bars and liquor stores surrounding our parks and encroaching on the areas in which we have our homes? What has this type of development done to other cities? The answer is apparent.

WE CAN FIGHT

Fortunately, we do not have to docilely accept the decisions of the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. We can appeal these decisions to the department's appeals board and we can take our case to court. And that is what we are going to do. We have already filed a formal appeal in the case of the Pink Elephant and now await a hearing in San Francisco. We are in the process of appealing the Hearthstone decision and have until April 6 to do so.

Join us in this crucial struggle to save the Carmel that we all came here to enjoy. Lend your support now in TIME and VOICE and DOLLARS if you can. Sign the appeal petitions which will be presented to you. Or you can sign them at any of the locations listed below. When you decide to join us in meeting this crisis, please phone any of the telephone numbers listed below. Your contribution to this cause, however small you may regard it, will carry great weight.

Remember that our failure to succeed will mean disaster for Carmel as we know it.

The Time Has Come .

By Kippy Stuart

As spring approaches I grow nostalgic for other springs in other climes. The New England countryside is beginning to give way to winter and send it on its way. Soon arbutus and wild winter-green-berries will peep above the snow. In Georgia the wild magnolias and dog-tooth violet are just coming to life. The prairies are bursting into bloom, and oh, do you remember the red-bud tree and the dogwood tree?

I always wondered why the red-bud tree should be called the Judas tree, such a dreadful name for so lovely a shrub. Well, there is a reason, and a good reason that this tree should bear the name that signifies betrayal and all the other connotations that go with the name Judas.

As the pioneers trekked westward they were always looking for food, and Johnnie Appleseed had showered the land with his largesse. This story was told to me in Oklahoma, where the redbud tree abounds. When the pioneers came upon the redbud tree in full bloom, they just took it for granted that here was a wild fruit of some kind. They garnered all the apple trees that Johnnie Appleseed had planted, fashioned the first orchards in Oklahoma. Beside these apple trees, they transplanted all the redbud trees they could find. Then they waited.

When these orchards came to fruition, sure enough, lovely apples rewarded the pioneers, but the redbud? This tree was a cheat! The redbud had failed to justify their hopes for food. Our first farmers had been betrayed. In a fury of frustration, they grabbed all the redbud trees and threw them away, muttering under their breaths, "You Judas! You Judas!"

I have been called into so many gardens that are on the point of giving up the ghost that it is appalling. I find one reason for most of these failures, the method of planting. When a baby is born, we don't jam its legs into hopeless positions. Neither should we mistreat new flora. The first rule in planting is to release roots that have been bound by containers. It stands to reason that a shrub that has been confined in can and pot long enough to establish a good root system needs help. No established tree or shrub should ever be dug out of its container. The can should be cut on two sides to give easy access in removing plant. After the plant is released from its confinement . . . now hold your hat . . . you aren't going to like this . . .

With trowel or spade, cut off at least one good inch from bottom of root ball. With firm fingers, then tear away roots on the outer rim that have started to grow upward. Drag all these roots downward and cut them off. Loosen the ball with fingers, to give new roots a chance to grow downward, or sure as shootin' you will lose your shrub. If you find something in your garden that just will not grow, dig it up and take a look at the roots. If the shape of the container is still visible, your plant is root-bound. Give it a good hair cut, re-plant, and nine chances to ten, the shrub will flourish.

John Pierre Kunstle left on Tuesday morning for Florida where he will drive a Porsche Spider in the Grand Prix Race on March 23. Swiss born Kunstle is one of the top sports car drivers on the West Coast and has been asked to take part in the Florida race by the Porsche company. He has lived in Carmel since 1953.

Carmel Students Win Seven Firsts At Co. Science Fair

Seven Carmel students took first places in biological and physical sciences divisions in the second annual Monterey County Science Fair at the Naval Postgraduate School. Announced as winners on Wednesday by Rear Admiral Earl E. Stone, superintendent of the Navy School, were Richard Tetley, Sandra Schmidt, Bea Tanda, Ade Bennett, Peter Hensel and Rock Scully, all Carmel High School students. John Draper, eighth grade at Sunset School, also took a first place. Jerry Stuefflen of Carmel High received honorable mention for his exhibit. There were 33 exhibitors in the show.

Each of the first place-winners will receive a copy of the The World We Live In by the editorial staff of Life Magazine and Lincoln Barnett.

Houglund Gives Talk On Austin

Mary Austin, A Paradox, was the title of the talk Houglund gave last week to the Booklovers group at Carmel Foundation. Mary Austin lived in Carmel for varying lengths of time between 1902-1920 first coming here to see the Mission in order to complete her novel Isidro, according to Houglund. She built two homes here and wrote plays produced at the Forest Theatre.

Frequently cited as being a domineering person Houglund feels Mary Austin built a strong ego-shell around herself as a protective covering. In her early life in Illinois the novelist experienced various saddening and thwarting situations because of her strong personality. Her family was unable to understand her and the resultant ego-drive Mary Austin developed exerted itself on the creative phase of her life.

Houglund, now living in Carmel with his wife Cisha and two children, contributed to and edited Mary Austin, A Memorial, while living in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Eggert Followed Major Powell's Historic Green-Colorado Route In His Adventurous River Journey

On Friday evening, March 22 at 8:00 o'clock, Carmel will have the opportunity of enjoying a most unusual program at Sunset School Auditorium. It is being presented by Charles Eggert, one of America's leading outdoor cinematographers, under the sponsorship of the Western Office of the National Parks Association, of which C. Edward Graves is Western Representative. Mr. Eggert is Director of Motion Pictures for the Association.

The program is unusual on several counts. It tells the story in color film of a 719-mile trip down the length of the Green and Colorado Rivers from their source in Wyoming to Grand Canyon. Mr. Eggert and his six companions in two neoprene boats followed the historic trail of Major John Wesley Powell's 1869 expedition, an adventure trip second only to the famous Lewis and Clark expedition in the annals of our history. Since 1869 there have been only six successful trips the full length of the river, of which Charles Eggert's is the last.

On several other counts this will be a rare opportunity to enjoy an unusual program. Mr. Eggert took with him on the trip equipment to make a stereophonic sound recording of the water noises, the only time that this trip has ever been made without the loss of any film. Because of the heat and spray from the rapids this is a very difficult accomplishment.

Mr. Eggert brings with him to Carmel a portable screen 23 feet wide and 13 feet high, which very nearly fills the stage of Sunset Auditorium. He is the only lecturer in the U. S. with equipment of this kind. His photographic record was made with Filmorana lenses which gives an effect very close to Cinemascope. He also has a musical accompaniment specially made for the film by Clare Leonard, a well-known New York composer.

Another fact that will make this documentary record unique is that the Eggert expedition will be the last ever to follow the length of the rivers, because the Bureau of Reclamation is now starting construction of two dams, Flaming Gorge near the Wyoming-Utah border and Glen Canyon near the Utah-Arizona border, which will effectively bar any such future adventure trips.

Mr. Eggert was born in Monroe, Michigan, in 1918. After his student days at Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, N.Y. and Juilliard School of music in New York City he spent four years in the Navy. After the war he became a professional motion picture photographer, operating his own studio. For a while he and his family (wife and two small boys) lived on a ranch in Shell, Wyoming. Now they live at Barrytown, N. Y. about 100 miles up the Hudson River from New York City.

Before his Colorado River trip he produced two films of the river trips in Dinosaur National Monument, one for the National Park Service. This is Dinosaur, and one for the Sierra Club, Wilderness River Trail. The latter was credited by the proponents of Echo Park Dam with doing more to win the notable victory for the conservation groups than anything else.

Eggert's first program on his present western tour was given in Tucson on Monday, March 4. Mr. J. F. Carithers, president of the Tucson Audubon Society, which sponsored the program, has written to C. Edward Graves as follows: "Well, Eggert has come and gone and his visit here was a com-

Players Circle Preparing Show For March 22 Opening

One of the laugh hits of New York's 1947-1948 theatrical season, For Love or Money, will open at the Golden Bough Players' Circle on March 22 for a run of six Friday-through-Sunday week ends. This sophisticated comedy is from the pen of F. Hugh Herbert, of The Moon is Blue, and Kiss and Tell. The play will be presented under the direction of Archie Hess.

For Love or Money is the merri-ly complicated story of a middle-aged stage star, Preston Mitchell, whose home is unexpectedly invaded by Janet Blair, a storm-marooned girl, young, naive and attractive, fleeing from a party at which she had been affronted. Mitchell has just come from the funeral of his wife, a helpless invalid whom he has tended during twelve long years, although worldly wise and cynical, he finds himself strongly attracted by his lively young guest. But his amatory progress is hedged with trouble. His sharp tongued leading lady becomes jealous. Then an ardent young veteran from the family next door pays court to Janet and for a while seems to have the edge. Mitchell also has to cope with the disapproval of his suspicious servants and the shocked parents of the young veteran. In the end the girl makes a decision that audiences find both highly amusing and surprising.

His and Hers, the current play at the Golden Bough Circle, will make its seventh and final presentation this week end.

P. G. and E.'s Cooperative Trinity Plan will gain $310,000,000 for taxpayers and California water users Trinity River Project is being built to provide more water for California. The Federal Government is building 3 dams and 14 miles of water tunnels to harness the Trinity River. As the water drops out of the mountains through the tunnels it can turn electric generators.

Here's
the P. G. & E. Plan
recommended to Congress by the Secretary of Interior

1. Electricity is a by-product of this water project, and P. G. & E. has offered to develop it, cooperating with the Government. Under the P. G. & E. Plan, the company will pay for the building of powerhouses, transmission lines . . . will pay State, Local and Federal taxes . . . plus paying for using the force of the falling water.

2. This plan was studied thoroughly and recommended to Congress by the U. S. Department of Interior. It is similar to other P. G. & E. cooperative plans with the Federal Government, cities, irrigation districts and other local agencies . . . which have been operating in a sound business way for many years, helping cut the cost of water and paying taxes.

3. It will mean a $310,000,000 benefit to water users and taxpayers. Here's how: Over the 50-year project repayment period, the government will gain $165,000,000 net from P. G. & E. payments for using the water; the Company also will pay $145,000,000 in State, Local and Federal taxes. Total gain—$310,000,000. P. G. & E. will build the $56,000,000 power facilities, thus cutting the cost of the project to taxpayers by 25%.

4. It will mean cheaper water and another source of power for all Northern and Central California at reasonable cost. Trinity power can be put to work efficiently and economically through P. G. & E.'s vast inter-connected system, already built and operating. The money gained would permit lower water rates for farmers, public agencies and industries. The power will be sold by P. G. & E., at no extra cost to the rate payers, at rates established by California Public Utilities Commission.

P. G. & E. will build the plants . . .

pay Government for use of water . . .

Don't be fooled by those whose purpose is Government distribution of power

They want the Government to build the power plants and transmission lines and sell power on a Government-ownership basis. This would result in an unnecessary burden on taxpayers and water users, and use of the electricity at subsidized rates by only a favored few.

Other water developments, such as the San Luis Project, can be built in whole or in part with the benefits gained under the P. G. & E. cooperative plan for Trinity.

More than 200 cities, Counties, Chambers of Commerce, Civic Organizations have endorsed the P. G. and E. Plan, and the United States Department of Interior has recommended it as the best way to develop Trinity River electricity.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
O. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

CONSERVATION COOPERATION

California Conservation Week has just ended. This is an annual event, sponsored by the California Conservation Council, of which Miss Pearl Chase of Santa Barbara is the very able and energetic Executive Vice-President. The publicity that the Council has given to observance of the week throughout the entire state covers every aspect of conservation.

The theme this year, as it was last year, was cooperation between the various segments of the conservation movement. There are very many organizations and publicly-supported agencies in this field. They are all working toward the same end, but sometimes in different ways. The objective is most commonly expressed by the phrase "the wise use of our natural resources."

In keeping with the theme of cooperation I might call attention to the program of the Fifth Biennial Wilderness Conference, which is taking place in San Francisco on the 15th and 16th of this month. In next week's column I shall report on the happenings at the Conference itself. This week I should like to comment on the list of cooperating organizations and agencies working with the Sierra Club, sponsor of the Conference, toward its success.

There are five of these cooperating organizations and five federal agencies that are working largely in the field of conservation. The organizations are privately supported, membership dues being the main source of income. The federal agencies are of course tax-supported, with their income derived from congressional appropriations. They are to a certain extent influenced by our two-party political system, since the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture, in whose departments they fall, are appointed by the incoming President.

The cooperating organizations are: American Planning and Civic Associations; Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs; Izaak Walton League of America; National Parks Association; and The Wilderness Society.

The cooperating federal agencies are: Bureau of Indian Affairs; Bureau of Land Management; Fish and Wildlife Service; Forest Service; National Park Service.

Since the Conference is concerned with the protection and proper use of wilderness, soil conservation is not in this program of primary concern. However all of the other facets of the conservation movement are being discussed and debated. In fact, water, forests, minerals and wildlife are all intimately involved in the question of wilderness conservation. Here then we have a fine example of socially-motivated organizations, on a non-profit non-tax-supported basis, cooperating fully in this Conference with the tax-supported agencies, entrusted by law with the duty of administering our natural resources.

An excellent example of the effectiveness of such cooperation is the resolving of the long and often bitter conflict between the Army and the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior in the case of the Wichita Mountains National Wildlife Refuge. The Army has been trying for several years by every possible means to get part of this unusually fine Refuge for an artillery range. The conservation groups have joined with the Fish and Wildlife Service in opposing it.

Recently a meeting was called in Washington of representatives of the conservation groups and government agencies involved, with the result that the Under-Secretary of the Army who was present reached an amicable agreement with the Fish and Wildlife Service on the subject, and the long controversy is now ended. Perhaps this is a good example of the old adage that "the pen is mightier than the sword".

Watchful eyes guard your voice when you telephone

Every time you make a phone call, a vast network of equipment speeds your voice to its destination. But a failure anywhere along the line could interrupt your service. So telephone people have worked out many ways to head off possible cases of trouble. For instance, in the maintenance center where Mike Sturtevant (above, left) and Stan Jansen work there's a new kind of line tester that checks the condition of thousands of lines an hour. It shows how well yours and others are working. In addition, telephone central offices have automatic trouble recorders that keep tabs on dial switching equipment. These recorders reveal trouble before it can interrupt routing of your calls.

Patrolling cross-country lines is another way we keep an eye on your service. And on microwave radio-relay routes and many cables, built-in alarms sound off automatically back in a control center whenever trouble threatens. In all these ways, and many others, telephone people safeguard your calls round the clock. It's part of the dependable phone service you've come to count on.

Guarrera Has Such Fun Singing Nobody Minds Full Team Of War Horses

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

Personality bloomed all over the stage at Sunset Auditorium Friday night when Frank Guarrera, Metropolitan Opera baritone provided a colorful high-light in the season of the Carmel Music Society. A really good baritone voice is one of the easier things to listen to, but there are so many different kinds of baritones, and so much music, good, bad and indifferent, to which they address their talents, that it takes both an exceptional voice and an outstanding program really to win an ovation these days.

Before the program was over, this artist had won something approaching an ovation, but it took quite a while for him to put himself across, and it was certainly not the selection of program material which did it. The program included practically every old chestnut from Where E'er You Walk to When I have Sung My Song. For a long time it was touch and go whether the roster of time-honored favorites would really be quite complete, but we need not have worried. Sure enough, the last encore was Old Man River.

Mr. Guarrera may have had a bit of a cold, for it took him a long, long time to warm up his voice. If it was a cold, then he knew he was going to have it when he gave his program to the Music Society. The first part of the program included not one, but three of the songs generally used to relax the vocal chords: Bois Epais, Tu Lo Sai and Where E'er You Walk. It would have been better had they been sung serially instead of being interlarded with more demanding and dramatic numbers such as Chi Vuol Enamorarsi and Figaro's aria Se Vuol Ballare. The voice was not warmed up enough for these.

On his sixth number O Thou Billowy Harvest Field by Rachmaninoff, we did hear the full, open resonant tone, delivered with dramatic feeling and free use of gestures, which delighted us during the rest of the evening. Guglielmo's aria from Cosi Fan Tutte was sung in English with spirit, humor and clear diction. Just before intermission we had the inevitable prologue from Pagliacci, sung with an easy, expressive, unforced manner that was very well received.

Then, after intermission, as though still thumbing through our album of Gems from Grand Opera, we heard the Toreador Song from Carmen. The artist achieved a beautiful tone, sang with vigor and freshness, and seemed to enjoy every minute of the song. For these reasons we did, too.

Turning to art songs and folk-songs sung in English, he gave us such things as The Last Hour by Kramer, which is pure corn and vocally dull, and Invictus. For some reason the latter had been substituted for I Love Life; not much of an improvement, it would seem. Regardless of these sour comments, we must acknowledge every song was splendidly sung by a superb voice. Mr. Guarrera so obviously and frankly enjoyed his evening and his audience that we would have enjoyed with him the performance of just about any old song he chose. Henry Holt, the accompanist with whom Mr. Guarrera had some friendly little chats during the evening, discharged his role with ability and fine musicianship.

Chanticleers Give Artful Performance In Seaside Saturday

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The Community Concert Association of Seaside presented The Chanticleers Saturday in the High School Auditorium, a quartet of male singers whose artistic experience came through the Shaw Chorale, the New York, Miami and other opera companies, solo performances in Europe and America, and four seasons in quartet. They gave selections of great variety in classical, traditional and Broadway numbers. One has heard many male quartets but none in so diversified a program as with William Driad and Richard Wright, tenors; Raymond Keast, baritone, and James Martindale, bass; accompanied by an excellent pianist, Kenneth McGuire. The recent exchange of tickets arrangement with the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association brought listeners from Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove, though some, unfortunately, did not attend, not realizing what they would miss. Besides the quartets, each appeared alone in operatic arias and beloved songs including arias from Don Carlo, Faust, Ye Winds and Waves, etc., with voices and artistry of a high standard in harmony and balance.

A Fantasy on Gilbert and Sullivan's Pinafore brought out the dramatic humor of the group particularly from Raymond Keast as the Admiral of the British Navy, though all cleverly portrayed their parts. There was nothing stereotyped in any part of their performance which they seemed to enjoy as much as the audience. They Call the Wind Maria, from Paint Your Wagon, with its whirling accompaniment, and Come to Me, Bend to Me from Brigadoon, were two of the four Broadway numbers in which Driad and Martindale sang the solos with much feeling. Wright, singing Deep River, projected the characteristic pathos of the negro admirably. The Song of the Chanticleers, written for them by David Smith, their arranger, opened the program and it closed with Great Day by Vincent Youmans. In short, the Chanticleers gave a scholarly, artful and happy presentation. The Community Association (300 members) is doing its bit towards the music of the Peninsula.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

This is California Library Week. We have set up in the main reading room an exhibit of old books bearing imprint dates in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. This exhibit has been attracting some attention, to our unabashed delight. Please look at it when next you come to the library.

In this column we refer sometimes to books which have somewhat limited appeal to the general public, but which need to be called to the attention of certain library patrons who can put them to real use. We have two such books this week. Both of them were published in Czechoslovakia, and have the beautiful plates which we have learned to expect from book-makers abroad. One of the books is on folk-toys, with color illustrations which are so plain that a craftsman could make the toys after looking long at the pictures. The other book is entitled Chinese Art. In this book some of the illustrative photographs are in color, and even those in black and white are so clear that they show plainly the materials and textures of the objects depicted there. In some cases the translucent quality of the pottery is very apparent. These are beautiful books. Use them kindly, or we'll put the librarian's curse on you, which curse causes even the strongest to quail!

Speaking of curses, this leads us to the problem of income taxes, and then to books about taxes. This library has two copies of Lasser's Your Income Tax, and five copies of the government publication Your Federal Income Tax. Most of these may be borrowed and taken home to help solve your problems which come to you when you begin to fill out your tax blanks. Don't you be a silly-billy and wait until the last day to ask for one of these helpful books! They may all be gone when you come steaming into the library in a great hurry for aid. Come in now, while there is time to lay a hand on them at once.

It might be a good thing if right here we talked again about duplicate copies of popular books, especially novels. We do buy as many as three copies of certain novels, generally starting with one or two and adding another one or two as demand requires. But we do not have enough money to buy duplicates, nor enough room to house them after the demand wears off. Like chickens, these duplicate copies come home to roost, and without sufficient roosting room they begin to clutter up the floor. If you have to wait a while for a popular book, it will still be in good shape when it reaches you. Really worn may be your pride, that for a while you had to answer in the negative when asked if you read the book in the past eleven weeks, this library has started circulating 204 new books, of which 76 were new novels. Of these novels, 21 were mysteries. If you read only mysteries, and had all of them at your disposal, you could have read two a week, or very nearly. In the matter of mystery stories, sad as it makes us to admit it, you may have to try the rental libraries. They have good ones, too. There are two new ones this week, mysteries, that is. The Scarlet Thread by Margaret Hood, and The Big Frame by The Gordons, are their authors and titles. Another new novel is Sword and Scalpel by Frank Slaughter. That's all we have time for today.

X-RAY MOBILE MONDAY

Monterey County Health Department's Mobile Chest X-ray unit will be in Carmel on Monday afternoon, parked near the Post Office, from 1:00-5:00 o'clock. Citizens are urged by the department to have their chests X-rayed free of charge at this time. Postcards telling the results will be mailed after the plates are read by the department.

SPAULDINGS GO TO BERMUDA

Dr. and Mrs. C. Arthur Spaulding Jr. are leaving this weekend for the East where they will meet their daughter Carole in Hartford, Connecticut. Carole is a senior at Ethel Walker School in Simsbury, Connecticut, and will be starting spring vacation when she joins her parents. Together they will go to Bermuda for the rest of the vacation. Carole will return to school while her father and mother spend a few days exploring the Caribbean before flying home. They plan to arrive here on April 12.

One of the basic conditions for life on earth is that water be available. Out of this need for water has come the greatest single industry in this country—public water supply.

Maintaining a water supply system on a high level of efficiency is a job for experts. Planning, building, and financing for future needs is another job which must be handled with the greatest skill.

Twice Through Panama Canal

Robert Emmett O'Brien is back after a month's absence during which he made two trips through the Panama Canal. Mr. O'Brien sailed from San Francisco on a Norwegian freighter to the Atlantic end of the canal, spent ten days in Panama, then came through the Canal again on his return to San Francisco on another Norwegian freighter.

He was impressed with remarks of the captain of the freighter, making a world tour, that during the closing of the Suez Canal it had only taken his ship four and a half days longer to circle the world by going around the Cape of Good Hope and this route was cheaper. The cost of running the ship for one day is $2,000, the cost of going through the canal is $10,000. Also time, as much as a day is lost at the Suez Canal waiting to go through in turn, at times.

Carmel Portraits . . .

similar tastes. I accepted Mrs. Signor's offer."

She worked during the three summer months and only in the evenings. She claims that the job was really that of a glorified clerk. But it suited her perfectly and she looks back at that time with nostalgia. She got her room and board and $25.00 a month for spending money. She tells of being there when Mrs. Signor's two nephews, Fred and Harrison Godwin, arrived from Canada. And of the gatherings around the big fireplace in the evenings and of the books discussed, the stories told, the fun, the readings, the arguments. Some who composed the group were Mary Austin, Scobi O'Sullivan, Charles Sumner Greene, Bert Heron. And Susan Porter who even then was delighting small informal audiences with her Irish Legends.

After serving as hostess for two summers Blanche with her brother Robert Tolmie and sister Olivia Warfield came down to Carmel and camped on a vacant lot. Blanche smiles reminiscently and says: "You know! In those days anyone could camp on any lot around here and no one would make a fuss." Before long the three of them had graduated from the camping stage and were living comfortably in a cottage.

Mrs. Warfield was a pianist of note but musical opportunities here were limited, and someone suggested that she open a tea-room. She exclaimed: "What a lark! I'll do it!" And that's how the little tearoom became The Lark.

I remember having lunches at The Lark when it was on Dolores Street, and discussing music and poetry with its gracious hostess, and I remember, too, when she moved her tearoom up to a studio in the midst of beautiful oaks right where the Purity Market now stands. And as I reminisce it seems that in the evenings the little rustic building was candlelit and that the path to it was through beds of blossoming flowers. It was so enchanting that I couldn't stand unmoved when the bulldozers smashed the picket fence, uprooted the trees and built layers of concrete over the flower beds. I still don't like to think about it. No supermarket can take its place.

Of course, with the brother and sister settling here, Blanche Tolmie took deeper roots in the place, and in less time than it takes to say Forest Theater she was a part of all the dramatic events. Her first stage appearance here was under the direction of Garnet Holme, when he produced three one-act plays with Blanche playing the leading role in one of them. Once initiated, she was a sturdy and constant worker in the Forest Theater.

Blanche played the lead in Countess Cathleen. The cast of players was a noted one. There were Charles Sumner Greene, Carl Cherry, Ruth Kuster, Dr. Alfred Burton. Edward Kuster wrote music especially for the play; Herbert Heron directed; dances were conceived and directed by Frances Doud, then Mrs. Glassell.

Many memories came crowding as Blanche and I talked of the old days. She directed the first performance of Rem Remsen's Inchling, that lovely tender children's classic that Rem wrote entirely for the Forest Theater. Billy, son of Hilda Argo, was Inchling the Worm; Bettie Greene played the Mother of Inchling; Moira Wallace, now Moira Courvoisier, was one of the cast.

Rem wrote another play, Mr. Bunt, appealing to both children and adults. An old program tells me that Scott Douglas played the name part. Some others in the cast were Helen Judson Sowell, Dale Leidig, Winsor Josselyn, Charles van Riper. Special music for the occasion was composed and directed by Frederick Preston Search who led his own orchestra of picked musicians.

Over The Fairy Line was another original children's play written and directed by Blanche Tolmie. And she dramatized Pinocchio and directed its production. Kevin Wallace, he that is now a feature writer for the San Francisco Chronicle, played one of the leading parts. Also in the cast were Max Hagemeyer, Gail Johnson, Homer Levinson, Freer Gottfried.

Blanche always had great respect for the children's ideas. One day when they were having try-outs for the part of Pinocchio she noticed a boy and his dog sitting quietly at one side. She thought he was just another summer visitor and paid no attention to him. But a child spoke up insistently: "But Miss Tolmie, you didn't try out Carl Brennfleck. And you should. He's good."

"All right, I will," acquiesced Blanche.

It turned out that the boy was indeed a summer tourist but he won the part and he played it with distinction. One local paper said: "Every cell and fibre of him was Pinocchio."

Quite a departure from the usual Forest Theater offerings was the Greek play Iphigenia In Tauris with Blanche in the name part. Kismet with John Hilliard, writer and professional actor, playing opposite Blanche. Dark Lady of the Sonnets, with Blanche as Queen Elizabeth, Romeo and Juliet, The Cradle, Midsummer Night's Dream and many more great plays with our Blanche directing, co-directing and playing leading roles.

Several years ago Bert and Helena Heron and Blanche Tolmie held a powwow about what should be done with the waste space under the stage at the Forest Theater. And thus was born the idea of converting it to an indoor theater. The plan has been revived from time to time and now a progressive hard-working group of young people who form the Theater Guild have carried out the plan and jocosely named the new enterprise Little-Theater-In-The-Ground.

Blanche Tolmie has so many different interests that she probably finds it impossible to establish a career in any one of them. At one time she went into the art of puppetry and made her own puppets. She worked with the National Youth Organization which was under the guidance and control of the Federal Theater back in the WPA days. She headed the division in radio, script-writing, making records. She even worked on a project designed to help the hard of hearing.

Now Blanche is dabbling—her word, not mine—in ceramics and she feels that she is getting somewhere in this art. She's also working with the Carmel Foundation, a fairly new organization supported by private individuals and which makes it possible for people who have reached the retirement age to meet on a social and cultural basis. Blanche supervises and arranges the Wednesday programs and tries to get any performer who has the gift of entertaining. She took over the job for three months and is still holding it after two years. She has worked so hard and unselfishly that on her recent birthday they gave her a present and they all had for themselves a right special clam-bake. Blanche is all afire now with the idea of establishing a storytelling program which she says stimulates the imagination and often leads to the writing of fiction.

I asked Blanche if there had ever been any amusing incidents in her career. She thought for a moment. "Yes," she said, "the funniest thing happened the day after Countess Cathleen opened. The Pine Cone had just appeared on the streets."

I interrupted: "Yes, I'll bet . . ."
"Wait a minute," said Blanche, "let me tell it. I bought a lot of copies thinking of sending them to my friends. You know! It would tell them I was doing a good job. I'd played the lead and the critics had praised me so it wasn't too much to expect. Anyway I trudged home with the papers under my arm. But my curiosity overcame me. I stopped, opened a paper, scanned it feverishly. My finger went up and down the columns. There wasn't a word about me any place. I stood in the middle of the dusty road and just howled. First I cried—then I laughed, loud and hysterical. If anyone was going by they probably thought: 'Just another crazy Carmel nut'. And after all these years it still seems funny to me."

To tell the truth I'd say that after all these years she's still smarting over it.

*Editor's Note: This deplorable incident occurred before the present ownership of the Pine Cone.

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The fact that the man of God's creating is not at the mercy of accidents, chance, or discord of any kind will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" will include the account of Paul's healing of Eutychus "who fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead" (Act 20:7-12).

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (424:5): "Accidents are unknown to God, or immortal Mind, and we must leave the mortal basis of belief and unite the one Mind, in order to change the notion of chance to the proper sense of God's unerring direction and thus bring out harmony."

The Golden Text is from Ecclesiastes (3:14): "I know that whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it."

After All, Quality Is What Counts

The Special Census of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea was completed on Sunday, March 10. The preliminary, unofficial count, has been presented to City Clerk, Larry Rose, by J. Herbert Bamford, Project Supervisor for the Bureau of Census. Subject to modification by the Bureau, the count establishes the population to be 4,380 persons, an increase of 29 persons over the 1950 count. This will not be official until certified by the Bureau of Census within the next few weeks.

From 1930 to 1940 the population increased by 765 persons, from 2,248 to 3,013, or approximately 34 percent. From 1940 to 1950 the population increased by 1,338 persons, from 3,013 to 4,351, or approximately 44%. The increase from 1950 to 1957 of 29 persons, from 4,351 to 4,380, is approximately seven-tenths of one percent.

Monterey County
Planning Commission,
Salinas, Calif.

Gentlemen:

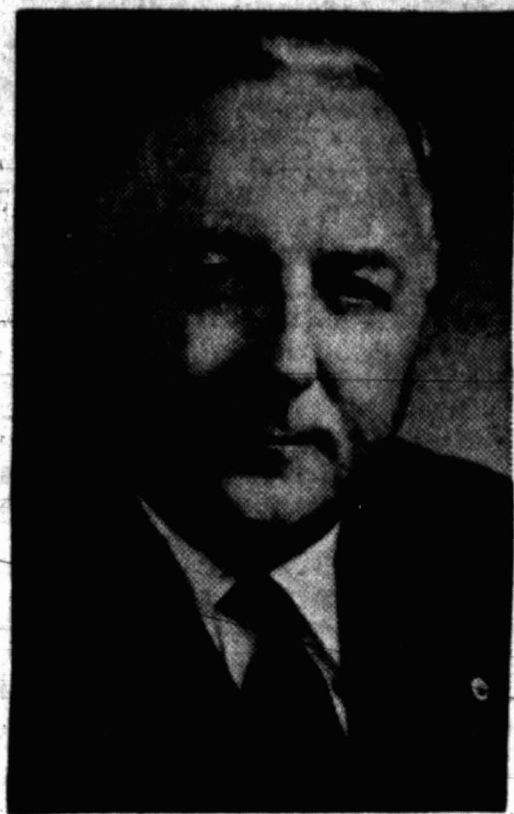

I understand that the Board of Supervisors has returned to you the question of the application of Steve Patterson for a permit to build a restaurant on the west side of Highway 1 south of Garra-pata Creek. I fail to understand why the Board of Supervisors has taken such action. I have heard of no new development in the situation, except perhaps in the personnel of Mr. Patterson's associates, which should certainly have no bearing at all in the final decision.

I spent the better part of one afternoon several months ago in appearing before your Commission and objecting emphatically to the proposed permit, both in the name of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society (of some 200 members), of which I was at that time Conservation Chairman, and of the 60-odd local members of the National Parks Association of which I am Western Representative. I can't take the time for another personal appearance at Salinas, but I should like to say that my views have not changed in the least. If we want to have the same slum-like appearance of the finest scenic highway in California that the State of Maine now has in the only eastern scenic seashore highway worthy of the name, then this is the point at which to begin. I hope that the Board of Supervisors will recognize this danger and back up your Commission on its former decision, which I hope will not be changed.

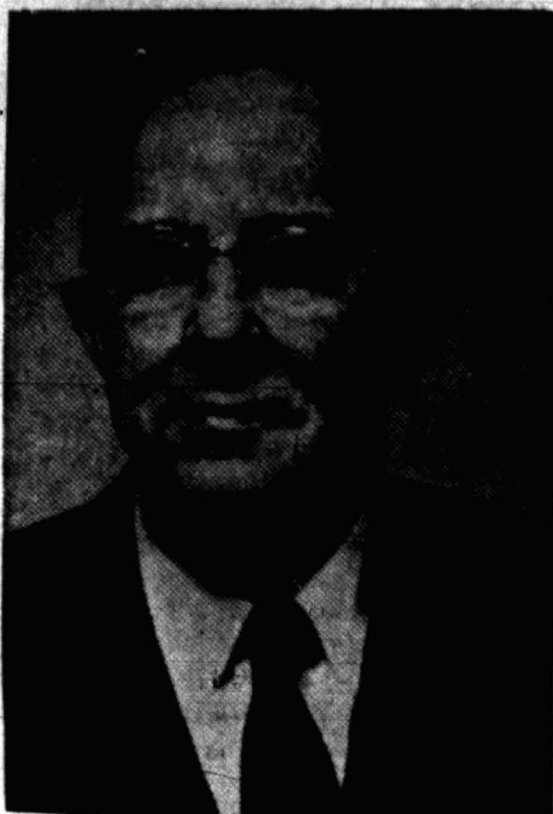

Very sincerely,
C. EDWARD GRAVES,
Western Representative.

STREET IMPROVEMENT WORK TO START WEDNESDAY

Granite Construction Company will start work on the Carmel Street Improvement contract Wednesday, excavating for the drain and culverts at Monte Verde and Sixth, and at Lincoln and Sixth. Traffic will be somewhat impeded here but the streets will not be closed, according to City Clerk Lawrence Rose.

This is the "big job," the rest, street surfacing, will not require more than two or three days. Streets to be surfaced are: Fifth Street from San Carlos to Dolores Streets; Dolores from Fifth to Sixth; Sixth from Dolores to Monte Verde from Sixth to Ocean Avenue. Cost to the city is $11,834.90, and the job is to be completed by May 1.

Three New Americans

Dorette Mueller and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Titus are the newest Carmelites admitted to American citizenship. They successfully passed their citizenship test in Superior Court in Salinas on Tuesday before Judge Stanley Lawson. They were formerly German citizens.

Late in the afternoon, back in Carmel, all smiles and happiness they displayed to friends their American citizen certificates granted by the court and an American flag and framed copy of the Constitution presented to them by Salinas Lodge 614, B.P.O.E.

Hooray, They're Homesick

Picture postcard from Lucie and Peter Mawdsley: "Our kind regards to you and all our friends. We came to this land (Funchal, Madeira) of flowers four weeks ago and after two weeks more we sail for England for our farewell visits and to arrange return passage home to Carmel. We had a full month on the Canaries after six weeks in Continental Spain. Both well but getting homesick."

CARMEL MPC STUDENTS TO ATTEND SAN JOSE MEETING

Grooming Talk At Town House

Town House will present a different type of art-craft from any shown in its recent craft exhibit when Mrs. Irene Marquis talks on Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock on the subject of hair styling. Mrs. Marquis is an old Carmelite who has been away recently studying, first in San Francisco with Mr. Don, then at L'Oreal company in Paris, and finally in Rome where she studied make-up.

Calley's Leave For England

Next Thursday Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Calley will sail from San Francisco on the Scandinavian freighter Fred Olson for a visit in England. They will be away for six months, spending much of their time in Suffolk with Mrs. Calley's sister. Although former Sunset shop teacher Ernest Calley was born in England, he left when he was just a year old so is eagerly anticipating seeing his native land.
